AN OLD MAID'S STORY.

I am old now. The gray indications of age surround my wrinkled brow and decrepit form. At times I am peevish and fretful bewailing my lot, and wishing that my days were ended; then a sweet reminiscence of the past sweeps over me, and inspires me with reverence. Though I am an old maid, there are things connected with my life which afford me pleasure to contemplate.

At the age of eighteen I was left an orphan. My mother died when I was quite young; my poor father lingered a few short years, then, like the fragile flower, withered and died. Falling heir to my father's immense fortune, I was flattered, courted, and admired, by people of the world—not for myself alone, but for my wealth. Well, I knew that if I were destitute of that which has power to attract thousands, my friends would be few. I soon became restless, weary, and tired of those empty flatteries.

At length the tortured brain hit upon a wild scheme, which I determined to carry out, spite the expectations of my maid.

Anastase, my waiting maid, had relatives residing in a proportionately large village, some six miles from W——, and there I determined to execute my project. It was a radiantly beautiful morning in the month of May. The sweet carol of birds, and the delicious perfume of the flowers, seemed to add a balm to my aching heart, and revive my drooping spirit. I was not a philanthropist; but on that beautiful morning I felt that there were others beside myself, and that the Creator had not designed this terrestial universe for me alone to enjoy. All I now desired was a true and trusting friend, one whom I could love, and whose faithfulness the adversities of life could not shake.

My maid and I stood upon the portico, literally surrounded by trunks, boxes and bundles, impatiently awaiting the arrival of the rustic, lumbering stage coach. I was completely metamorphosed, having substituted the plain, comely traveling dress for my usually rich apparel. No jewelry adorned my person; it was my object to appear as one in ordinary circumstances. At an abrupt curve in the road a cloud of dust revealed to my anxious eyes the wished-for conveyance. With the aid of the porter and coachman, our trunks, &c., were deposited on the top; and, with a brief farewell to those at the house, we were rolling toward our new home.

This caprice of mine was, indeed, remarkably novel. I, the wealthy Anna D'Haven, daughter and heir of Captain D'Haven, U. S. N., riding in a country stage coach; destination—an old farm house, where, in order, to find some one to love me, independent of gold as a dowry. I had assumed a fictitious name and become a plain country lass. What would some of my aristocratic friends say? First, the old time-worn barn, then a cluster of freshly painted comfortable cottages revealed our wished-for destination. It was the "dawn of a new era" to me.

"Miss Howard, I believe," said a portly old gentleman, advancing to where my maid and I stood.

It was Anastase's uncle. He had come to meet us, with the wagon.

"I am she," I answered, slightly bowing, and, as I gazed upon his round, genial face, a feeling of friendship was awakened in my bosom, which I had never before experienced.

I cannot describe my state of mind as I rode through that country village. I was almost tempted to forego my original intention. How humiliating it would be, were it made public, I thought. My name would be a by-word to gossips. My reverie was brought to a close by the termination of our journey.

"This, then, is to be my temporary home," said I, looking at the old, antique-looking house looming up from among large and shady willows.

I was introduced to the inmates, and then Mrs. Williams (a kind, gentle matron of two score and ten—one whom I shall always remember with a feeling akin to awe), accompanied me to my room. After expressing many wishes and apologies, she said:

"My dear Anna—for such I must call you—you must make yourself perfectly at home. Our mode of living is not grand, but we will do all in our power to make you comfortable."

"Thank you," I replied, "I shall endeavor to do so. I am perfectly entranced with your rural home. It is so different from what I pictured it. Everything is so homelike—so inviting."

I had been in my new home two months—months of bliss to me—and what changes were wrought in those two months? I met him—Eugene St. Clair. Tall, dark and handsome. I fail to describe him. He remains an incognito to this day. He seemed cool and distant to all but me. I met him, and loved him—loved him as mortal seldom loves. One night, as we stood upon the lawn facing the lake, the crescent moon shone full upon us, and nothing disturbed the stillness but the gentle rippling of the water. His hat he held in one hand, the other clasped mine. He was gazing dreamingly into my eyes. I could not speak. I was silently happy.

"Anna," he said, in his low, harmonious voice, which sounded like music to my ear—"Anna, will you be my wife? Will you link your destiny with that of a gambler?"

"A gambler!" I gasped, disengaging myself from him, and gazing with terror into his pallid face.

"A gambler I have been, but I have renounced that hellish life. I mean to reform, to make myself worthy of the name I bear; and all for you because I love you. It was not my choice, Heaven knows t'was not! I was driven to it. I was a spendthrift; became dissipated and reckless. My father twice threatened to discard me. I did not heed his threat. I became involved in debt; appealed to my father, promising to reform, but he ordered me from the house. There was only one resource left, and that I adopted. I became a gambler."

He buried his head in his hands and wept. I could not articulate a word. I seemed petrified. Objects began to grow dim around me. I staggered, and would have fallen had he not caught me in his arms. I left the spot the affianced bride of Eugene St. Clair.

I was happy and sorrowful alternately, happy in the belief that Eugene loved me, yet apprehensive of the future.

We were to be married in three weeks. I did not know his reason for a hasty, quiet marriage. I did not inquire. Whatever Eugene desired, I willingly assented to. I had implicit faith in his love.

"Anna, I am compelled to leave you for a short time. I have business—business of vital importance—which I must immediately transact; but I shall not be long absent."

I felt piqued at his not telling me the nature of his business; but with a single smile I bade him God-speed. He lifted my hand to his lips, and passionately imprinted kisses upon it.

As his form passed from view, there came a thought to my frivolous mind—a thought which was destined to blast my bright hopes and visions. I asked myself: Why not start for home, and write to Eugene, asking him to join me. It would be such a surprise—such a pleasant surprise—to see him enter my mansion—stare in bewilderment, and gaze upon his wealthy affianced with wonder. I thought 'twould be delightful. Accordingly I had my trunks packed, so as to be able to start on the morrow.

"Mrs. Williams, this evening will terminate my stay under your hospitable roof; an occurrence which I regret most exceedingly. I shall always remember the happy days I have spent here, and with tears recall those bright faces at the old stone farm-house."

We were sitting on the porch, enjoying the refreshing breeze from the lake. I noticed the crest fallen look on their faces as I spoke of departing. I, too, experienced a poignant pang of regret at leaving such kind and sympathizing friends. The kind old lady turned her beaming face full upon me, and in a voice husky with emotion said:

"Anna, I take as much interest in your welfare as I would in my child's. What I tell you is for your own good—you must take no offense. We are about to part—your path leads one way—mine another; perhaps we shall never meet again, in this world. If we should not, remember what I tell you. You are about to marry a man of the world, who, I have no doubt, loves you; but whose reputation was so very bad, he was at one time reckless, dissipated, and is even now reported to have been a—a gambler."

"I learned that from his own lips," I replied, rather haughtily.

"Yes, my child; but you do not know the danger into which you are precipitating yourself. I would like to warn you before it is too late; but—"

"Heaven and earth could not move me in my resolve. I have as much faith in that man as I had in my father; and were he to prove false, I would not condemn, but pity him."

She made no answer.

But that evening, as I bade her "good night," she fondly drew me to her, and fervently pronounced a blessing.

The morning dawned radiant and beautiful. Mrs. Williams greeted me with a merry "good morning," inquired after my health, and invited me to partake of a frugal meal she had prepared for me. Then came the final leave-taking, and in a short time I was on my homeward journey.

I found everything as I had left it at home. The servants were somewhat surprised at my unlooked for arrival. I left Anastase to make all explanations, and sought my room. Immediately changed my dusty garments for more suitable apparel, and proceeded to write to my future husband. In it I stated that I wished to see him concerning material matters—gave him the necessary directions—wrote his address on the envelope, and placed the note in my writing desk, intending to send it on the morrow. It had again become cloudy, and toward evening the rain descended in torrents. The hoarse roaring of the thunder, and the dull pattering of the rain, did not sound discordant to my ear. I liked it. It agreed with my turbulent state of mind.

I had just finished a book in which I was deeply interested. The clock tolled the hour of eleven. I started, rubbed my eyes, and threw my book on the table. Time flies on rapid wings, I thought, and made preparations to retire. I lay listening to the rain beating against my window, thinking of my all-absorbing and only love—thinking of the time when he would place his arms about me, and call me his little wife. And I, too, was performing a good action. I was rescuing from the jaws of an untimely grave—from the yawning gulf of perpetual perdition, one of God's creatures—one for whom I would have willingly sacrificed my life. The clock struck twelve, I turned myself on my pillow, and tried to compose my mind for sleep. I had sunk into a sweet, dreamy slumber, when I was awakened by a slight noise too loud to be caused by the rain, and too low, I thought, to be made by a human being. I raised myself in bed, and peered through the darkness. The light which I generally kept burning flickered dimly, casting vague shadows here and there.

Intent on learning the cause of the noise which disturbed me, I quickly arose and approached the window. At that instant a vivid flash of lightning illuminated the room, and revealed to me the window, partly raised. For a moment I stood irresolute, caused by reflection that, perhaps, burglars had attempted to gain an entrance to the house. The raised window convinced me that danger was imminent, for I had securely closed it before retiring. Before his death, my father had presented me with a small pistol, and this weapon I always kept under my pillow. In an instant more I was by the bedside, and had the pistol in my hand. I gazed again toward the window; but oh! horror! before it stood a man, masked, and holding in his hand a large poignard.

I tried to cry out, but my voice failed me. The next instant I was rudely seized by the throat and a hoarse voice hissed in my ear:

"One word, and you die!"

I was frantic with fear. I clenched my pistol, leveled and fired. His hold relaxed, he staggered, and fell. I tore the mask from his face. A flash of lightning revealed the features of Eugene St. Clair. The clock toled one.

My story is told. I feel relieved of a heavy burden.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams are dead, and I occupy the old stone farm-house. There, near the grave of Eugene, I pass my days. He tried to rob the rich Anna D'Haven, to marry the poor Anna Howard. It was his mistake—my folly.

A HORRIBLE STORY.

A Ship of Death Floats into a Port of the Shetland Islands.

Since the time when the Ancient Mariner told the terrible tale of the curse-laden ship with her crew of ghastly corpses, no more thrilling story of the sea has been related than that of the whale ship Diana, that recently drifted into one of the Shetland Islands.

A year ago she left the Shetlands on a whaling voyage to the Arctic regions, having on board fifty men. From that time nothing more was heard of her. The friends of those on board became alarmed.—Money was raised and premiums offered to the first vessel that would bring tidings of the missing ship, but all to no avail. Hope was almost abandoned.

On the 2d of April the people near Rona's Voe, in one of the Shetland Isles, were startled at seeing a ghastly wreck of a ship sailing into the harbor. Battered and ice-crushed, sails and cordage cut away, boats and spears cut up for fuel in the terrible Arctic winter, her deck covered with dead and dying, the long lost Diana sailed in like a ship from Deadman's Land. Fifty men sailed out of Lerwick in her on a bright May morning last year. All of the fifty came back on her on the 2d of April, this year; the same, yet how different

Ten men, of whom the captain was one, lay stiffened corpses on the deck; thirty-five lay helplessly sick and some dying; two retained sufficient strength to creep aloft and the other three crawled feebly about the deck. The ship was boarded by the islanders, and as they climbed over the bulwarks, the man at the wheel fainted from excitement; one of the sick die as he lay, his death being announced by the fellow occupant of his birth feebly moaning, "Take away this dead man." On the bridge of the vessel lay the body of the captain, as it had lain for four months, with nine of his dead shipmates by his side, all decently laid out by those who soon expected to share their fate.

The survivors could not bear to sink the bodies of their comrades into the sea, but kept them so that when the last man died the fated ship that had been their common home should be their common tomb. The surgeon of the ship worked faithfully to the last, but cold, hunger, and scurvy, and dysentery were too much for him. The brave old captain was the first victim, and died blessing his men. Then the others fell, one by one, until the ship was tenanted only by the dead and dying. One night more at sea would have left the Diana a floating coffin. Not one of the fifty would have lived to tell the ghastly tale.

A FOURTH OF JULY TOAST.—The following toast is submitted for the next fourth of July celebration:—"The American Eagle—perched on the highest crest of the Rocky Mountains, he flaps his wings in the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans, quenches his thirst in the ice water of the Artic Sea, and shakes his tail-feathers over the Gulf of Mexico."

IT costs a good deal to be wise, but it don't cost anything to be happy.

A STRANGE STORY.

One of the most extraordinary stories of married life we ever heard of has just been made public. The incidents are more improbable than a novelist or dramatist, with a strict regard for his reputation, would dare to use. The story, as it originally appeared, was that a Mr. Wright had married a Miss Chamberlain, having just obtained a divorce from his first wife on the sole evidence of his second. The first wife then acted as bridesmaid at Miss Chamberlain's marriage, standing there, as we are told, "like a living corps." The "curse and blight of the Almighty" were invoked by the agonized reporter upon the newly married couple.

These are not pleasant things to hear, and Mr. Wright has come forward with a long statement, in which the assertions of the reporter are contradicted, but a narative in every way more strange and remarkable is substituted for them. The husband tells his own story, and it far transcends the wildest dreams of Depoe or Sue. In 1854 Mr. Wright returned to this country from Europe in order to marry a lady to whom he was engaged. He came sooner than he intended, because the lady's parents and all her family had died, and left her unprotected. She was twenty-three years old, and afflicted with a nervous disease which her mother described as hysteria. The pair went to England, and while at Keswick one night, a month after their marriage, the husband was horified to see his wife fall at his feet in a fit of epilepsy. She had seventeen fits before the morning. Shocked at the discovery that his wife was afflicted with this most awful disease, and knowing that it was incurable, and dispairing of escape from his terrible position, he that night, as he states, "adopted her as his child."

From that time to this he has nursed her and taken care of her, but has never resumed the relationship of their marriage tie. He calls her in his narrative, his "patient" and his "ward." Once, when she thought he proposed to treat her as his wife, she was rendered "extremely unhappy." Her disease grew worse—the very servants and nurses fled from the house in horror. Six years ago Miss Chamberlain came as nurse and as Mr. Wright says, his "patient" herself proposed that he should marry this lady. "She" (the first wife) "had come to regard it as religiously wrong to think of fulfilling the relations of wife in her condition." She pressed him to marry Miss Chamberlain Let us imagine what she must have suffered ere she could bring herself to this. They tried to get a divorce in Indiana, but failed, for reasons which Mr. Wright, a little inconsistently, decline to mention. At last they succeeded—for the wife helped—and Miss Chamberlain was the solitary witness on whose evidence the compact was dissolved. Of what nature that evidence was, we are not informed. The divorced wife was present at the marriage ceremony, and she is to live with the couple for the future.

Was there ever such a story? One scarcely knows which to pity most, the man chained to a scarcely living woman for thirteen years, appalled night and day by the terrible visitations of which she was subject, or the woman doomed to witness the misery which she had caused, loss of his affections and his marriage with another, and to bear in addition the remorse which her own deception and sin must necessarily occasion her. Verily, the tragedies of real life are more ghastly than those which the imagination conjures up.—N. Y. Times.

DEPOPULATION OF IRELAND.—The London Times admits the loss of two millions of the population of Ireland since 1846; i. e., one-quarter of the population that of date. But it asserts that many perished by famine and fever, and still more found homes in the New World, "a large proportion also found homes as happy in this island, and are now a part of ourselves." Yet after all, it insists that the population of Ireland is not less now than six millions, or about the same that it was sixty years ago, and consequently that there is no such depopulation in progress as to call for remedies of exceptionable and questionable character.

THE subject of impression at first sight was being talked over at the supper table, when the lady whose duty it was to preside "over the tea cups and tea" said she always formed an idea of a person at first sight, and generally found it to be correct.

"Mamma," said the youngest son, in a shrill voice that attracted the attention of all present.

"Well, my dear, what is it?" replied the fond mother.

"I want to know what was your opinion of me when you first saw me."

This question gave a sudden turn to the conversation.

A GENTLEMAN called on a miser, and found him at the table endeavoring to catch a fly. Presently he succeeded in entrapping one, which he immediately put into the sugar bowl and shut down the cover. The gentleman asked for an explanation of this singular sport. "I'll tell you," replied the miser, a triumphant grin overspreading his countenance as he spoke, "I want to ascertain if the servant steals the sugar.

A YOUNG lady of Montgomery, who was recently caught smoking a cigar, gave it as her reason for the act, "that it made it smell as though there was a man around."

THE LORD'S PRAYER.—Did you ever think, short though it is, how much there is in the Lord's Prayer?—Oh, it is beautiful! Like a diamond in the crown of a queen, it unites a thousand sparkling gems in one.

It teaches all of us, every one of us, to look to God as our parent—"Our Father."

It prompts us to raise our thoughts and our desires above the earth—"Who art in heaven."

It tells us that we must reverence our heavenly Father—"Hallowed be thy name."

It breathes the saint's reward—"Thy kingdom come."

And a submissive, obedient spirit—"Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven."

And a forgiving spirit—"Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those that trespass against us."

And, last of all, the adoring spirit—"For thine is the kingdom and the power and the glory forever and ever. Amen."

DIFFERENCE IN THE SHAPE OF FEET.—The New York Hide and Leather Journal notices a few of the differences in the shape of the pedal extremities of people in various sections of the country. Shoes made for one locality are not adapted for all. For instance, a broad shoe, wide in the shank, is best adapted to the Eastern trade, a narrow sole meeting with but little favor.—Rhode Island, though the smallest State in the Union, can boast of having some of the biggest feet that ever trod sole leather. The Middle States require slimmer shoes and higher in the instep than the East. The instep grows higher as we progress southward, commencing with Virginia and the foot shorter and more plump. Rarely, at the North, does a full-grown man were less than a No. 6, running up in the scale of sizes to No. 11; but, at the South, many a full-sized man wears fours and fives, and seldom over nines.

The ladies of the South, adds the Charleston Courier, have confessedly always had the smallest and prettiest feet of any race in the world.

WONDERS.—When a young man is clerk of a store and dresses like a prince, smokes "foreign cigars," drinks "nice brandy," attends theatres, dances and the like, I wonder if he does all on the avails of his clerkship?

When a young lady sits in the parlor during the day, with her lily white fingers covered with rings, I wonder if her mother doesn't wash the dishes and do the work in the kitchen?

When the deacon of the church sells strong butter, recommending it as a good article, I wonder what he relies upon for salvation?

When a lady laces her waist a third less than nature made it, I wonder if her pretty figure will not shorten life a dozen years or more, besides making her miserable while she does live?

When a young man is dependent upon his daily toils for his income, and marries a lady who does not know how to make a loaf of bread or mend a garment, I wonder if he is not lacking somewhere, say towards the top, for instance?

When a man receives a periodical or newspaper weekly, and takes great delight reading it, and don't pay for it, I wonder if he has a soul or a gizzard?

A FORLORN fellow says thus plaintively:—"When Sally's arms her dog imprisen, I always wish my neck was his'n; how often would I stop and turn, to get a pat from a hand like her'n; and when she kisses Towser's nose, oh! don't I wish that I were those"

A SCHOOLMASTER in a Western village, where the custom of "boarding round" prevails, recently received notice from a Dutch matron that she "would eat him but couldn't sleep him." He will doubtless be careful not to venture within her reach.

Ma," said a little girl to her mother, "do the men want to get married as much as the women do?"—"Pshaw! what are you talking about?" "Why, ma, the women who come here are always talking about getting married—the men don't."

"Lost, by a poor lad tied up in a brown paper, with a flute in an overcoat, and several other articles of wearing apparel.

A LADY tramped on a dog's tail at Omaha, the other day, and the animal bit her leg. The blood did not flow, however; only sawdust flew. He did not go deep enough for blood. This is the most useful purpose we have ever heard of a false calf serving.

PRECOCIOUS PUPIL.—Please, Miss Jones, what is the meaning of suburbs? Governess, (who is extensively crinolined)—The outskirts of a place. Pupil, (seizing Miss J. by the dress)—Then, Miss Jones, are these your suburbs?

A YOUNG lady, just married, in New York, had twenty-four pairs of shoes to match twenty-four dresses. She was a whole-soled maiden.

FORTUNE-TELLERS and tilting hoops operate differently. The former reveal what a lady will be in the future—the later reveal what she is at present.

IF you can express yourself so as to be perfectly understood in ten words, never use a dozen.

Democratic State Ticket.

FOR JUDGE OF THE SUPREME COURT,
HON. GEORGE SHARSWOOD, OF PHILADELPHIA.

Democratic County Ticket.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY,
E. F. KERR, of Bedford Borough.
FOR TREASURER,
ISAAC MENGEL, of Bedford Bor.
FOR COMMISSIONER,
P. M. BARTON, of E. Providence.
FOR POOR DIRECTOR,
JOHN I. NOBLE, of S. Woodberry.
FOR AUDITOR,
SAMUEL WHIP, of Cumb. Valley.

It becomes our mournful duty to record the death of Edward G. Roddy, Esq., editor of the Uniontown Genius of Liberty. He was a true man and the editorial fraternity will "keep his memory green."

We lack the room to make any lengthy comment upon the proceedings of the Democratic County Convention which assembled in this place, on Tuesday last. Suffice it to say that the Convention was entirely harmonious and nominated a first rate ticket which will be elected by a large majority. We shall speak more fully on this subject hereafter.

The Gazette says that $3,000 of the Poor House deficit accrued during the administration of Messrs. Shuck and Trout. Will it please state who composed the board of Auditors at that remote period?—Inquirer.

Most assuredly. Henry B. Mock, the present leader of the Radical party in St. Clair township, was the board of Auditors at that time. Any more questions?

RECONNOISSANCE BY THE ENEMY.

The Philadelphia Inquirer, whose editor is a kind of aid de camp of the Union League, having reconnoitred the Democratic Convention at Harrisburg, thus reports:

"The Democracy of Pennsylvania met in Convention in the Hall of the House of Representatives this morning, to nominate a candidate for the Supreme Bench and arrange matters. The Convention is full; the outside attendance is large, and the usual well-drilled but tumultuous enthusiasm of the rank and file lends force and vim to the proceedings. Altogether, the Convention is an able and respectable one."

Such commendation from such a source at such a time, ought to have some weight with the "loyal people of the country."

Finally, however, the list was narrowed down to Boyle and Black. The former was the acknowledged representative of the "Young Democracy," and he was accordingly arrayed against Mr. Black, one of the old apostles of the party, whose management was becoming obnoxious to the young blood. The result was a complete victory for Young America, and a terrible defeat for the old dynasty. Charles E. Boyle received 74 votes; Hon. Jeremiah S. Black received 44 votes. This result was greeted with loud and continuous cheers.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The above is said in regard to the election of the President of the late Democratic State Convention. It is not true that there was any contest between what the Inquirer styles the "Young Democracy," and the "old dynasty," nor was Judge Black a candidate for any position in the gift of the Convention. He peremptorily refused to permit his name to be used in connection with the presidency of the Convention, and made a speech recommending his friends to vote for Mr. Boyle. The votes cast for him were given him in spite of his determination not to permit the use of his name.

THE PRESS VS. THE RADICAL LEGISLATURE.

There is scarcely a Radical newspaper in the State, (with the exception of the Harrisburg Telegraph, which lives upon legislative pap) that has not denounced the late Radical Legislature in the most unqualified terms. The universal verdict of the presses of both parties, is, that the last legislature was the most corrupt and infamous that ever assembled at Harrisburg. The other day Forney's Press added its testimony to the long and damning column of evidence against that execrated body. Thus speaks the Press:

"These men (members of the Legislature,) were sent to Harrisburg to attend to the public interests. They lost sight of them entirely in the mass of private acts which flooded the chambers. It seems that we might just as well have no representatives at Harrisburg as the ones we had last session. We await with interest some apology or attempted explanation from the supposititious guardians of the public weal. So far, in no part of the State, we believe, have any of our Senators or Assemblymen undertaken to explain how it was that several general bills passed both Houses without any one knowing anything about them. It is bad enough to neglect public business, but it is criminal to be surprised. In the army those officers who suffered themselves to be taken by surprise were court-martialed and disgraced, or shot, and they had excuses our over-paid Legislature never can have."

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVENTION.

Prothonotary Shannon, being called upon to address the Convention, responded in his usual happy style. His address elicited much applause.

On motion the Convention adjourned sine die.

The Bedford Democratic Brass Band enlivened the proceedings, with most excellent music, and after listening to one of its splendid pieces, the members of the Convention dispersed, resolved to do more determined battle than ever for Democratic principles and Democratic candidates.

JOB MANN, President.
M. A. HUNTER, P. G. MORGART, } Secretaries.

DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

This body assembled at Harrisburg, on Tuesday, 11th inst., and at 12 o'clock, M., was called to order by Hon. W. A. Wallace, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee. Hon. D. M. Fox, of Philadelphia, was chosen Temporary Chairman. A permanent organization was then effected by the election of Hon. Charles E. Boyle, of Fayette, as President, with one Vice President from each Senatorial district, and the usual number of Secretaries. The Convention was large, harmonious and full of enthusiasm. A number of the ablest jurists and lawyers of the State were delegates, among whom we remarked Judge Black, Hon. F. W. Hughes, Hon. J. McDowell Sharpe, Hon. Richard Vaux, H. P. Laird, Esq., R. A. Lamberton, Esq., Hon. J. D. Stiles, Hon. B. M. Boyer, Gen. A. P. Wilson and others. The delegates from this Representative and Senatorial district, were: A. S. Smith, of Fulton, (Senatorial) John G. Hartley, of Bedford, and Hiram Findlay of Somerset, (Representative). A committee on Resolutions, consisting of one from each Senatorial district, was appointed, Mr. Smith, of Fulton, representing this district on the committee.

Nominations were then made for the office of Justice of the Supreme Court, and George Sharswood, of Philadelphia, James Ryon, of Schuylkill, James H. Graham, of Cumberland, John W. Maynard, of Northampton, W. H. Lowrie, of Alegheny, Wm. Elwell, of Bradford, Robert J. Fisher, of York, Gaylord Church, of Bradford, Benjamin Grant, of Erie, Henry D. Foster, of Westmoreland, and Cyrus L. Pershing were named. The name of Gen. Foster was withdrawn. The first ballot resulted as follows:

|---|---|
| Geo. Sharswood, | 50 votes. |
| John W. Maynard, | 14 " |
| W. H. Lowrie, | 16 " |
| James Ryon, | 14 " |
| R. J. Fisher, | 9 " |
| Gaylord Church, | 3 " |
| Benjamin Grant, | 2 " |
| William Elwell, | 7 " |
| C. L. Pershing, | 2 " |

All the names, except those of Sharswood, Ryon, Maynard and Fisher were then withdrawn. The second ballot stood as follows:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| George Sharswood had | 85 | votes |
| J. W. Maynard " | 15 | " |
| James Ryon " | 11 | " |
| R. J. Fisher " | 9 | " |

Hon. George Sharswood of Philadelphia, having received a majority of all the votes cast, was then declared the nominee of the Convention. On motion of Judge Black, who had voted for Judge Fisher, of York, the nomination of Judge Sharswood was made unanimous, amidst the most tumultuous applause.

The Convention then proceeded to select a State Committee, and elect a chairman of the same. Hon. W. A. Wallace, of Clearfield, was re-elected Chairman of the State Committee, and the Convention decided that his term of office should continue until January 1, 1869. J. O. Kimmell, Esq., of Somerset, is the member of the State Committee for this district. The Committee on resolutions, then reported the following platform, which was unanimously adopted, after which the Convention adjourned sine die:

PLATFORM.

We, the delegates of the Democratic party of Pennsylvania in general State Convention assembled, for the nomination of a candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court, profoundly grateful to the Supreme Ruler of the Universe for the return of peace to our beloved country, but deeply anxious on account of the trials and delays which impede the complete restoration and reunion of all the States, and appreciating the dangers which still threaten the safety of our political institutions, and the future peace, liberty and prosperity of the people, resolve,

1. That we steadfastly adhere to the principles of civil government established by the founders of the Union, and in the present conflict of legislative usurpation with constitutional law, we esteem a wise, upright and fearless judiciary the great bulwark of public liberty and individual right.

2. That the Union of the States is perpetual, and the Federal Government supreme within its constitutional limits.

3. That Representation in the Congress of the United States, and in the electoral college, is a right fundamental and indestructible in its nature and abiding in every State, being a duty as well as a right pertaining to the people of every State and essential to our Republican system of Government. Its denial is the destruction of the Government itself.

4. Each State having under the Constitution the exclusive right to prescribe the qualifications of its own electors, we proclaim as a usurpation and an outrage the establishment of negro suffrage in any of the States by the coercive exercise of Federal power: and we shall resist to the last resort the threatened measures of the leaders of the Republican party to interfere by acts of Congress with the regulation of the elective franchise in the State of Pennsylvania.

5. That we are opposed to any amendment of the Constitution of the State giving to negroes the right of suffrage.

6. That the failure of the Tariff Bill in the last session of the late Congress, more than three-fourths of whose members belonged to the Republican party, is an illustration of their infidelity to their pledges and their neglect of their professions in relation to the great industrial and financial interests of the country.

7. That the Radical majority in Congress, and those who sustain them, have overthrown the Constitution, dismembered the Federal Union and subverted republican government by a long series of usurpations, among which are the following:

Their treatment of ten States as subjugated provinces and governing them by military force in time of peace.

Their enactment of laws denying indemnity for arrests and false imprisonments made without authority of law.

Their resistance of the authority of the civil tribunals, and their overthrow by the substitution of military commissions for the trial of undefined offenses.

Their efforts to destroy the executive and judicial departments of the Government by threatened impeachment to control executive action and a projected "remodelling" of the Supreme Court of the United States to force obedience to congressional mandates.

That the purpose of confiscation avowed by the Republican leaders, in violation of the Declaration of Rights and other guarantees of the Federal and State Constitutions, tending as it does, to destroy all protection to private property, advances them far on the high road to repudiation.

8. That a strict conformity, both by the Federal and State Government, to all the powers, restrictions and guarantees, as contained in the Constitution of the United States, a right and wise economy in the administration of public affairs, and the election of capable, honest and patriotic men to office, are measures absolutely necessary to restore public confidence, avert national bankruptcy, and to ensure the perpetuity of our free institutions.

9. That the late Republican Legislature of this State has distinguished itself for the number of its unwise and unconstitutional enactments.

Some of these laws have already been judicially determined to be unconstitutional, others are unwise, inexpedient, oppressive and fanatical, and the members who sustained them should be condemned by the people at the polls.

10. That the power and success of the Democratic party greatly depends on the character and efficiency of its newspaper press, and that to give due force to its usefulness, this Convention earnestly requests that in every county all the members of the Democratic party should make a vigorous effort to increase its circulation by giving it individual patronage and support.

11. That the Democracy of Pennsylvania, by their representatives now assembled, hereby tender their acknowledgments and thanks to the Hon. Geo. W. Woodward in his retirement from the position of Chief Justice of this Commonwealth, for the pure faithful and able manner in which he discharged the duties of that exalted position.

12. That the candidate we this day present to the people of Pennsylvania for a place on the Supreme Bench of the State, is in all respects worthy of the confidence and support of all who are in favor of an enlightened, faithful and impartial administration of the laws.

PRESIDENTIAL PROSPECTS.

The Bangor Democrat publishes an article upon the above subject, which does not give so hopeless a view of our situation as many people insist upon taking. Throwing out the ten southern States, which it is not probable will be allowed to participate in the election, the number of electoral votes will be 247. These, the Democrat thinks, from present indications, will be divided as follows:

| Democrat. | | Republican. | |
|---|---|---|---|
| New Hampshire | 5 | Maine | 7 |
| Connecticut | 6 | Vermont | 5 |
| New York | 33 | Massachusetts | 12 |
| New Jersey | 7 | Rhode Island | 4 |
| Pennsylvania | 26 | Ohio | 12 |
| Maryland | 7 | Illinois | 16 |
| Delaware | 3 | Michigan | 8 |
| Kentucky | 11 | Wisconsin | 8 |
| Tennessee | 10 | Iowa | 8 |
| Indiana | 13 | Minnesota | 4 |
| Nebraska | 3 | Kansas | 3 |
| Nevada | 3 | Doubtful. | |
| Oregon | 3 | West Virginia | 5 |
| California | 5 | Missouri | 11 |
| Total | 135 | Total | 112 |

If the ten excluded States are permitted to participate in the election, the Democrat thinks that "it is altogether probable that their 70 electoral votes will be cast solid for the Democratic nominee, although it is possible, through the interference of the military, that the negroes may carry South Carolina and Louisiana." In that event, the southern vote would stand: Democratic, 57; Republican, 13; and the total electoral vote would be divided as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| For the Democratic candidate | 192 |
| For the Republican candidate | 125 |
| Democratic majority | 67 |

Commenting upon these figures, the New York Day-Book says, this is certainly not so hopeless a case. Men have no right, in view of these figures, and they are not unreasonable ones, to sit down, fold their hands, and cry "all is lost." If every Democrat would put his shoulder to the wheel, and work half as hard to get the Mongrels out of power as they work to retain it, the victory would be won. If we should spend one-half the money in enlightening the people that the Abolitionists spend in deluding them, their power would fade away like the mist before the morning sun. It is inaction, the deadly stupor in the Democracy, that precedes death, that alarms us more than any inherent difficulties in the way of success. Our enemies are strong, not in their cause, but only because of our weakness. They are courageous, only because we are cowardly. They are lions, only because we are sheep!—Let the Democracy recover from their lethargy, and success is certain. But how shall they? We answer, by a true understanding of the real issues before the country. Knowledge will beget courage, courage will instil hope, hope will induce work, and by work the worlds were made. When every Democrat feels that it is a part of his personal duty to aid in extricating our country from its present deplorable position, it will be so extricated, in spite of all the Abolitionists from Maine to Mexico.

Frightful and Melancholy Accident at the New York Academy of Music.

The performance of the Japanese Acrobats at the Academy of Music, New York, on Wednesday evening was abruptly terminated by a most distressing accident. The wonderful little boy performer, "All Right," who has afforded so much pleasure, and won such a lively interest in every city wherein he has performed, was the victim of this sad mishap. One of this fellow's feats was a flight across the Academy, from the top of the proscenium to the middle of the first tier of boxes. This was preformed upon a stout rope.—When in the midst of the flight, last evening, the poor boy lost his hold, and fell to the floor, a distance of 30 or 40 feet, landing in the middle isle of the parquette. Of course the performance was immediately terminated in the midst of the greatest excitement. "All Right," was promptly taken up and conveyed home and Dr. Carnochan and other surgeons were immediately summoned to his aid. He bled profusely from the nose and mouth, and was insensible.

At one o'clock Thursday morning All Right had slightly recovered from the terible shock to his system, and after answering at intervals the questions of the anxious friends who surrounded him, had fallen asleep on his couch. For some time before sleeping he was quite rational and answered all questions put to him in an intelligent manner, although he evidently did not half realize his dangerous condition. The physicians stated that his injuries were principally internal. He also suffered a terrible concussion on the right side of the head, but wonderful though it may seem, not a bone was fractured. The unfortunate young performer is a small lad only 10 years of age, a clever genius in his professional art, and thousands of public admirers from whom he received that odd nickname, will long to hear that the favorite young performer is still "All Right."

A YOUNG LADY returning to her country home, after a sojourn of a few months in the city, was hardly recognized by her friends. In place of a coarse, rustic, flushed face, she had a soft ruby complexion of almost marble smoothness, and instead of twenty three she really appeared but eighteen. Upon inquiry as to the cause of so great a change, she plainly told them that she used the CIRCASSIAN BALM, and considered it an invaluable acquisition to any Lady's toilet. By its use any Lady or Gentleman can improve their personal appearance an hundred fold. It is simple in its combination, as Nature herself is simple, yet unsurpassed in its efficacy in drawing impurities from, also healing, cleansing and beautifying the skin and complexion. By its direct action on the cuticle it draws from it all its impurities, kindly healing the same, and leaving the surface as Nature intended it should be, clear, soft, smooth and beautiful. DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP. This great medicine cured Dr. J. H. Schenck, the proprietor, of Pulmonary Consumption, when it had assumed its most formidable aspect, and when speedy death appeared to be inevitable. His physicians pronounced his case incurable, when he commenced the use of this simple but powerful remedy. His health was restored in a very short time, and no return of the disease has been apprehended, for all the symptoms quickly disappeared, and his present weight is more than two hundred pounds.

Since his recovery, he has devoted his attention exclusively to the cure of Consumption, and the diseases which are usually complicated with it, and the cures effected by his medicines have been very numerous and truly wonderful. Dr. Schenck makes professional visits to several of the larger cities weekly, where he has a large concourse of patients, and it is truly astonishing to see poor consumptives that have to be lifted out of their carriages, and in a few months healthy, robust persons. Dr. Schenck's PULMONIC SYRUP, SEAWEED TONIC, and MANDRAKE PILLS, are generally all required in curing Consumption. Full directions accompany each, so that any one can take them without seeing Dr. Schenck, but when it is convenient it is best to see him. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer his fee is three dollars.

Please observe, when purchasing, that the two likenesses of the Doctor, one when in the last stage of consumption, and the other as he now is, in perfect health, are on the Government stamp.

Sold by all druggists and dealers; price $1 50 per bottle, or $7 50 the half dozen. All letters for advice should be addressed to Dr. Schenck's principal Office, No. 15 North Sixth street, Philadelphia, Pa.

TO FARMERS.—We call attention to the notice of the officers of the Bedford County Agricultural Society, published in this issue. There appears to be a good deal of apathy among the farmers of our county, in relation to the proposed holding of a County Fair. Why this is so, we are unable to conjecture. It is certain that Agricultural Fairs have always resulted in good to the communities in which they have been held, operating to produce better stock and better grain, and to ameliorate the hardships of agricultural labor, whilst furnishing a most agreeable episode in the yearly routine of the life of the farmer. Why, then, not have a fair this year in Bedford county? Our resources are ample to make a successful exhibition, and all that is required to put the matter through, is energy and earnestness on the subject among the farmers. We hope these will not be wanting. Let there be a more lively interest taken in the proposed Fair, and let there be a full turn out on the 29th inst., the time fixed for the next meeting of the Society.

WHO WANTS TO BUILD A RAILROAD?—We find the following in a report of some remarks made by a Mr. Moore, of Fulton co., at the Railroad Convention recently held at Harrisonville, in that county:

"As to the possibility of a charter, he had visited Bedford in order to confer with Hon. John Cessna, who is in the interest of the Pa. Central, who had assured him that he would not only give his lands (lying along the proposed road) and take stock in the Co., but he pledged himself that a charter should be procured from the Legislature of Maryland."

So it appears that the "Hon. John Cessna is in the interest of the Pa. Central!" Hadn't the Bedford Inquirer better keep an eye on him? And Mr. Cessna will give his lands and take stock, and "pledged himself that a charter should be procured from the Legislature of Maryland." John must own the Maryland Legislature that he can pledge himself for its action. Whoever wants to build a railroad, can get the charter, stock, lands, &c., to do it, from the "Hon. John Cessna." This simplifies things amazingly. No need of a "Free Railroad Law," now! "Upon what meat hath this our Cesar fed, that he has grown so great!"

RAILROAD CONVENTION.—We learn from the McConnellsburg papers that a Railroad Convention was held at Harrisonville, Fulton county, on Saturday, 8th inst., at which the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, this Convention regards the development of coal at or near New Grenada, one of the proposed termini of the projected Rail Road, as a vital condition to securing the completion of said Rail Road; and Whereas, the N. G. O. and M. Company is willing to enter into practical effort to develop said coal, therefore,

Resolved, That the Convention recommends to the citizens of this county, and parts adjacent, interested in the contemplated Rail Road, to subscribe for shares of stock in the above company to the extent of three thousand dollars, the fund so raised to be applied exclusively to shafting, or digging, to develop the vein of Anthracite coal alleged to have been penetrated in the process of boring for oil at New Grenada, Fulton county, Pa., and that the President of the Convention name a committee of one from each district in the county and one in Hancock, Md., to carry out the purposes of this resolution.

SAD ACCIDENT.—Matthias Ott, of St. Clair tp., fell from the roof of a building at Mr. Wm. Oster's, near St. Clairsville, a few days ago, and was instantly killed, the fall dislocating his neck and fracturing his skull. Mr. Ott was about to fix a rafter in its place, when he lost his equilibrium and fell to the basement of the building. Deceased leaves a large and dependent family to mourn his loss.

FESTIVAL.—The Presbyterian Mite Society of the borough of Bloody Run, will hold a grand Festival and Fair, commencing on Tuesday evening, June 25th. There will be a public dinner on Wednesday noon. The society will erect a large pavilion in the centre of the town, and as the accommodations will be ample, it is hoped there will be a full attendance.

REMEDY FOR THE SUFFERING.—We would recommend all suffering from the oppressive heat to buy a whole linen suit at the Emporium of Berkstresser & Co. Straw hats and linen goods in great abundance. Remember the place, Julianna street.

REGULATOR.—Unparallelled attractions at Irvine and Statler's Regulator. Boots, Shoes, Fancy Articles, Queensware, Cigars and Tobacco, cheap and good. Call and see.

REMOVAL.—The office of Meyers & Dickerson, Attorneys at Law, has been removed to the rooms formerly occupied by Hall and Palmer, on Julianna street.

APRIL REPORT OF THE AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT.—The report of the Agricultural Department for April says—"Never has there been so general an expression of encouragement in view of the fine condition of winter wheat since the establishment of the present system for the collection of crop statistics. In more than nine-tenths of the returns received the condition of the crop is reported favorable and promising. From the South the returns are as cheering as from the West. Here and there it is stated that a smaller breadth, from the lack of labor, or from bad weather in the fall, was sown or drilled. In a few places winter killing is reported."

EDS. GAZETTE:—Some of the "sufferers" that work at the "gutters," ask you to return their devout thanks to the "Friend" who put it into the philosophical noddle of the active, little junior editor of the Bedford Inquirer, to recommend umbrellas, and umbrella holders for them. They are very grateful for the kindness, and several days before the friendly notice appeared, had an idea of getting the aforesaid editor No. 2, to hold the umbrellas for them, but, owing to his bad health during the war, and the exertions he makes carrying that stick, they had not the heart to ask him to "carry arms" so heavy as an umbrella.

They also had that other "bold soldier," the editor's "friend," in view, but they did not ask him, because every body says, the laziest brute in all the town is the "Gravel Hill Calf." *

FARMERS who sow early and drill in their grain scarcely ever miss a wheat crop. Some of our farmers in order to save expense as they think, in buying, depend on their neighbors for a drill, and of course, must wait their neighbor's time. Men who manage thus never amount to much, as farmers or citizens. Own your machinery! Every farmer should own a drill, then he can sow when ready. We are glad to learn from Hartley & Metzger that they are selling so many drills—but they assure us, that unless farmers engage them soon, they will not be able to procure the Gum Rubber Drills, as the demand for them is increasing every year.

MEINHEER GAZETTE:—I am sorry to say that the "city fathers" of our Borough, have not yet complied with the requisition of that far famed sheet the "Bedford Inquirer," a model of purity, wisdom and honesty, in that they have failed to procure additional help to hold umbrellas over us while paving Penn and Bedford Streets. Being in danger of being sun-struck I informed the aforesaid "city fathers," that I would stand it no longer, when they promised a little shade on the subject. I have been informed that every effort has been made to effect that purpose, but without success. I was hoping that some of our friends, who seem to take such a deep interest in our welfare, would invent some economical means to shield us from the threatened calamity, but it seems that they have no more brains than the laws of the land allow them, and are minus any inventive genius. Could not one of the Editors of the Inquirer, or V. V. Esq., invent some such commodity in order to relieve us? We would remember them forever and a day longer. We hope that this matter will be attended to soon, that our lives may be prolonged for the benefit of such lazy louts as the Inquirer fellows and their friend. Very Respectfully, J. C. BOWERS.

Bedford, June 18, 1867.

—The local elections in West Virginia, which have recently taken place, show large conservative gains, and many counties have been completely revolutionized. Every county in what is known as the Panhandle has given large conservative majorities, and the great diminution in radical strength is said to be noticeable everywhere.

—Ben. Butler says the diamond pin that Booth wore when captured cannot be found. We are astonished. It could not be that Baker or anybody connected with the party that hunted him down could have stolen it. We should as soon suspect Butler himself.

J. W. BRADLEY'S
CELEBRATED PATENT
DUPLEX ELLIPTIC (OR DOUBLE SPRING)
SKIRT.
The wonderful flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any lady wearing the DUPLEX ELLIPTIC SKIRT will be experienced particularly in crowded Assemblies, Operas, Carriages, Railroad Cars, Church Pews, Arm Chairs, for Promenade and House Dress, as the Skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality in crinoline, not found in any single spring Skirt.
A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For Children, Misses and Young Ladies they are superior to all others.
They will not bend or break like the single spring, but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary Skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The Hoops are covered with double and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs, but twice (or double) covered: preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.
The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the STANDARD SKIRT of the Fashionable World!
To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in crinoline, viz. superior quality, perfect manufacture, stylish shape and finish, flexibility, durability, comfort and economy, inquire for
J. W. BRADLEY'S DUPLEX ELLIPTIC, or Double Spring Skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.
CAUTION.—To guard against imposition, be particular to notice that Skirts offered as "DUPLEX" have the red ink stamp, viz: "J W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs," upon the waistband—☞ none others are genuine. Also notice that every Hoop will admit a pin being passed through the centre, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their flexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other Skirt.
For sale in all stores where first class Skirts are sold throughout the United States and elsewhere. Manufactured by the sole owners of the patent,

ASTROLOGY.
The World Astonished
AT THE WONDERFUL REVELATIONS MADE BY THE GREAT ASTROLOGIST, MADAME H. A. PERRIGO.
She reveals secrets no mortal ever knew. She restores to happiness those who, from doleful events, catasrophes, crosses in love, loss of relations and friends, loss of money, &c., have become despondent. She brings together those separated, gives information concerning absent friends or lovers, restores lost or stolen property, tells you the business you are best qualified to pursue and in what you will be most successful, causes speedy marriages and tells you the very day you will marry, gives your name, likeness and characteristics of the person. She reads your very thoughts, and by her almost supernatural powers unveils the dark and hidden mysteries of the future. From the stars we see in the firmament—the malefic stars that overcome or predominate in the configuration—from the aspects and positions of the planets and the fixed stars in the heavens at the time of birth, she deduces the future destiny of man. Fail not to consult the greatest Astrologist on earth. It costs you but a trifle, and you may never again have so favorable an opportunity. Consultation fee, with likeness and all desired information, $1. Parties living at a distance can consult the Madame by mail with equal safety and satisfaction to themselves, as if in person. A full and explicit chart, written out, with all inquiries answered and likeness enclosed, sent by mail on receipt of price above mentioned. The strictest secresy will be maintained, and all correspondence returned or destroyed. References of the highest order furnished those desiring them. Write plainly the day of the month and year in which you were born, enclosing a small lock of hair.

REPARATOR CAPILLI.
Throw away your false frizzes, your switches, your wig—
Destructive of comfort, and not worth a fig;
Come aged, come youthful, come ugly and fair,
And rejoice in your own luxuriant hair.
REPARATOR CAPILLI
For restoring hair upon bald heads (from whatever cause it may have fallen out) and forcing a growth of hair upon the face, it has no equal. It will force the beard to grow upon the smoothest face in from five to eight weeks, or hair upon bald heads in from two to three months. A few ignorant practitioners have asserted that there is nothing that will force or hasten the growth of the hair or beard. Their assertions are false, as thousands of living witnesses (from their own experience) can bear witness. But many will say how are we to distinguish the genuine from the spurious? It certainly is difficult, as nine-tenths of the different preparations advertised for the hair and beard are entirely worthless, and you may have already thrown away large amounts in their purchase. To such we would say, try the Reparator Capilli; it will cost you nothing unless it fully comes up to our representations. If your druggist does not keep it, send us one dollar and we will forward it, postpaid, together with a receipt for the money, which will be returned you on application, provided entire satisfaction is not given. ## Publications.

1867.—"THE WORLD."—1867.
The attention of the public is invited to the claims of "The World" as one of the leading public journals of the country. It is the chief organ of the Democratic Party of the United States, and the foremost advocate of the immediate restoration of the Union. Its highest merits consists in its character as an enterprising and trustworthy newspaper.
The next year bids fair to be a more critical one in the history of our free institutions than even any eventful ones that have preceded it. The first requisite for an intelligent judgment of public affairs is a full and authentic account of facts as they transpire. These THE WORLD always aims to give with conscientious accuracy, and with equal fullness and fidelity, whether they make for or against its own views of public policy. Prompt activity in spreading before its readers every kind of news in which any part of the public takes an interest, is the first duty of a newspaper, and the facilities of THE WORLD for discharging this obligation are unsurpassed by those of any journal in the United States. Whatever else it may fail in, it certainly will not fail to furnish the news, nor to supply it with such promptitude, spirit, freshness, abundance, variety, accuracy and candor, that no class of readers can miss anything of interest which they wish to find. THE WORLD will publish documents and arguments prepared by political foes just as freely as those prepared by political friends; making its own comments on them, of course, but never suppressing or garbling them because they are calculated to damage its own party. Adverse arguments, which it cannot refute, it is content to leave to make their full impression. THE WORLD adopts this rule because it believes no other is honest; because it conceives that its first duty to its readers is to keep them thoroughly informed on every passing subject of importance. In politics, THE WORLD will continue to be the bold advocate of a Liberal, Progressive Democracy. The unflinching champion of Freedom, Justice, Order and Constitutional Rights. The inspiration of its politics is Freedom restrained by Justice; or, to speak more strictly, Freedom pure and simple, in the largest collective measure; the office of justice being merely to protect freedom from encroachments; Freedom of the individual citizen in his rights of thought, speech, religion and locomotion; in his Right to choose his own food and drink, in spite of meddlesome temperance laws; in his Right to make any money bargains he thinks proper, in spite of foolish usury laws; in his Right to buy and sell in all markets, domestic and foreign, in spite of unjust protective tariffs; in his Right to representation in the legislative bodies which tax him, in spite of unconstitutional exclusions; Freedom of collective citizens to assemble for discussion of grievances; Freedom of all local communities to manage their local affairs without central interference; Freedom in every section of the country from the arrogant and unconstitutional domination of other sections; this large and comprehensive idea of Freedom sums up the politics of THE WORLD, which will never be found wanting to this capital interest of the country and of the human race.
In its accurate Commercial Intelligence and careful, reliable market reports, THE WORLD will continue to maintain its present high reputation. A paper published in the commercial metropolis is naturally looked to for authentic information relating to trade, commerce and finance; and this being a feature in which the THE WORLD prides itself, it boldly challenges comparison with every journal in the metropolis.
EDITIONS.
The WEEKLY WORLD, a large quarto sheet, same size as Daily, is now printed throughout in large type, and has the largest circulation of any weekly journal published, save one. Its extraordinary success since its union with the New York ARGUS has justified the most liberal expenditures, which will make it unrivalled in interest and value to farmers. Published Wednesday.
1. Its Market Reports embrace the New York, Albany, Brighton and Cambridge Live Stock Markets; the New York Country Produce and General Produce Markets; special and valuable Hop Intelligence; a department of Agricultural Reading; all together composing an unrivalled handbook of current information for the Farmer, Live Stock or Produce Dealer, Country Merchant, &c.
2. A page or more reserved for entertaining Fireside Reading for the Family circle, embracing the freshest and best Stories, Poetry, Religious Reading, etc., and a page for the Discussion of all Prominent Topics of general interest, political agricultural, financial, literary, etc.
3. Its Digest of the News is not, like most weeklies, a mere waste-basket of the Daily; only matters of interest and importance are chosen from the Daily, while the mass of its contents are prepared especially for the Weekly.
In every postoffice district there should be found some active, public spirited Democrat, who will confer a benefit upon us, his neighbors, and the cause, by counseling with his Democratic friends and making a determined effort to form as large a club as possible for the WEEKLY WORLD.
The SEMI-WEEKLY WORLD is a large quarto sheet, same size as Daily, which, by omitting a great mass of city advertisements from the Daily, contains all its news, correspondence, editorials, commercial and market news, cattle market and provision reports, and a fresh and entertaining miscellany of literature. Published Tuesday and Friday.
The DAILY WORLD affords a complete compendium of, and commentary upon, the news of every day.
